Via Rail train disruptions to continue into Friday morning

Derailement. About 3,600 passengers on the Toronto to Montreal and Toronto to Ottawa routes were affected

Via Rail says it expects disruptions on the Toronto to Montreal and Toronto to Ottawa routes to continue well into Friday morning after the derailment of a CN freight train near Brockville, Ont., early Thursday.

"Morning trains for tomorrow (41, 43, 51, 61, 50, 60) will be replaced by bus and we will be announcing when there will be line clearance," the company tweeted on Thursday afternoon.

Via said that about 3,600 passengers were affected on Thursday by the derailment.

Later in the day, spokeswoman Mylene Belanger said the company had secured buses for the rest of the day to transport passengers.

"We don't expect line clearance by the last departure, which is scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight," Belanger said.

She said Via hadn't received any confirmation from CN to resume service.

CN said on Twitter late Thursday afternoon that crews were clearing derailed cars so the damaged rail line could be repaired and it hoped to have one line open late Thursday or early Friday.

CN said it was investigating the incident along with the Transportation Safety Board of Canada.

Lindsay Fedchyshyn, a CN spokeswoman, earlier said no one was injured when the 26-car eastbound freight train derailed near the eastern Ontario city at about 4 a.m.

The train included two loaded automobile carriers and had five cars carrying carbon powder and 13 unloaded fuel tank cars, she said.

The site was being assessed by local emergency crews for any possible leaks, Fedchyshyn said.

Public help needed

Police seeking burglar in Gatineau

Police in Gatineau are asking for the public's help in identifying a suspect connected to two burglaries in the city on May 19 and June 1.

According to police, the male suspect broke into a home at 15 Rue Taschereau at 9 p.m. on May 19 and then robbed a Maxi store at 300 Boul. St. Joseph June 1 around 6 p.m.

The suspect is described as a white male in his 20s with short brown hair. At the time of the crimes, the man was wearing camouflage shorts and black shoes.

Anyone with information about the events is asked to call Det. Sgt. Edith Germain at 819-243-2345 ext. 6157.

Teens arrested for arson after burning food truck

Three Gatineau teens are facing arson charges after the mobile food truck of a soup kitchen burned down last year.

The fire allegedly broke out inside the mobile truck of la Soupière de l'Amitié on June 9, 2013 at around 2 a.m. It was parked in a lot at 777 boulevard de la Cité.

Three boys, aged 15, 16 and 17, were charged with arson causing damage to property and breaking and entering. They were released with a promise to appear in court.

La Soupière de l'Amitié is a non-profit organization that cooks up hot $1 lunches every day for people in need.

Police say damages are in the thousands of dollars and the soup kitchen will have to halt its food truck service — a key source of revenue for the organization — for several months.

Police spent months investigating the arson and interviewing several key witnesses.

Activists demand more transparency on TPP

Rally outside Delta hotel. Trans-Pacific Partnership trade talks too secret, NDP MP Don Davies says

DENIS ARMSTRONG
ottawa@metronews.ca

Concerned over the level of secrecy shown by the federal government's latest round of trade talks for the Trans-Pacific Partnership, activist organization Sum Of Us hosted a loud rally outside the Delta hotel on Thursday while presenting NDP MP and Foreign Trade Critic Don Davies with a petition signed by 100,000 Canadians.

The TPP trade agreement, which is currently being negotiated at Ottawa's Delta hotel until July 12, would loosen trade rules on intellectual properties, investment opportunities, state-owned enterprises and rules of origin between Canada, the U.S.,

Australia, Japan, New Zealand, Malaysia, Vietnam, Brunei, Chile, Mexico, Peru and Singapore, affecting nearly 800 million people representing about forty per cent of the global economy.

You would think that a trade agreement many times larger than NAFTA — the North America Free Trade Agreement — would get some mention in the media, but to date, it's largely been radio silence since July 3 when negotiations moved from Vancouver, where they were greeted with aggressive protests, to Ottawa, where, presumably, they could negotiate in peace.

Sum Of Us activists stopped traffic, waving a massive banner outside the Delta hotel that read "Secret Negotiations Happening Here" and distributing brochures naming the group's top-five complaints about the TPP agreement, including limiting access to life-saving medicine, internet censorship, accelerate climate change, increased income inequality, and the Conservative government's habit of negotiating such important, far-reaching international agreements behind closed doors where the media and the Canadian public can't see it.

"What we're doing here today is illegal in some of the very countries that are negotiating here today," said Sum Of Us spokesperson Seamus Wolfe. "TPP doesn't protect Canadian values."

"The Canadian public has the right to be briefed about what's on the table. The NDP is demanding transparency from the Conservative government," said MP Davies.

International Trade Minister Ed Fast was not available for comment.

Ottawa. Convention Centre 2nd best in world

The Ottawa Convention Centre (OCC) has tied for 2nd place with Montreal's Palais des congrès for the title of World's Best Convention Centre.

The award was announced on July 1 by the International Association of Congress Centres (AIACC) in Berlin.

The Adelaide Convention Centre of Australia won top prize while a total of 27 centres from Kyoto to Switzerland were nominated for the award.

"To be nominated is one thing, but to be runner-up amongst so many elite centres is another," said Paul Keogh, OCC senior vice-president of sales and client service.

The APIC Apex Award is based on client feedback and experience, taking into consideration the centre's overall performance, services and amenities. The evaluation started in the fall of 2013 and was conducted by Ipsos.

Staff, said Keogh, were key to the centre's placing.

"I am proud of this centre, but mostly of the people that work inside here," said Keogh. AMY YEE/FOR METRO

Forget about the beach — students embark on Arctic expedition instead

Students on Ice.

For the next two weeks, five Ottawa students will explore parts of the Canadian Arctic, Greenland and northern Quebec

ottawa@metronews.ca

After a long winter of grueling academics, you might think that most students would want to spend their summer baking in the sun.

But this Saturday, five Ottawa high school students: Michaela Norgren, Selena Panarella, Jack Patterson, Jo-see Street and Gordon Zhang, will set sail on a 12-day long expedition with 81 other Canadian and international students and a team of scientists, musicians, historians, researchers and arctic experts, for the 14th annual Students On Ice expedition.

For the next two weeks, they'll explore remote parts of eastern Canadian Arctic and western Greenland. After several days of pre-expedition activities, the team flies to Kuujuaq, a small community in northern Quebec, from which they will cruise above the Arctic Circle, visiting communities, fjords, bays, islands and the Tomgat Mountains National Park in Labrador before heading to Greenland.

Along the way, the students, many of whom are inner-city kids, will hike, swim and explore the arctic landscapes, getting to know the flora and fauna and experience life in the north first hand.

The Students On Ice foundation covers the cost of the expedition for 85% of the students, most of whom couldn't imagine ever leaving the city, never mind a life-changing arctic adventure.

"The polar regions are incredible classrooms," said Students On Ice founder and executive director Geoff Green. "The wilderness connects kids with the nature, with people from other nations and cultures, and with themselves. They come back from this expedition inspired and motivated to do more. This kind of experience of nature should be a priority because we've lost so much contact with the natural environment."

Green also hopes that by experiencing the high arctic first hand, a young generation will be more sensitive to the epic environmental destruction that's becoming such a threat to the polar regions.

"Increased industrialization and global warming are conspiring to create a perfect storm that could capsize the north and south poles," Green added. "We're facing huge challenges in the north. This is a good place to start."

Five high school students from Ottawa will join scores of fellow pupils on a once-in-a-lifetime trip to the Arctic to study everything from polar bears to global warming. LEE NARRAWAY/STUDENTS ON ICE

FIFA unveils poster for Women's World Cup 2015

FIFA unveiled its poster for the 2015 Women's World Cup Thursday. The tournament is being held in six major Canadian cities next summer. FIFA

The fanfare of the 2014 FIFA World Cup will soon come to an end, the FIFA Women's World Cup Canada 2015 is already gearing up with the launch of their official poster.

The poster, revealed Thursday, was in the making for the last six to eight months and is the final addition to the games' marketing pieces, said Peter Montopoli, CEO of the tournament's national organizing committee.

The complete collection of released marketing pieces now allows for 10 to 11 months of event promotion, he said. The tournament has unveiled its logos, colour scheme and mascot in the last 18 months.

For each tournament, FIFA marketing works to create a poster that "captures the essence of the country and spirit of the game," said Montopoli.

The final poster for the Women's World Cup features an icon of a sun and soccer ball above a woman whose hair is woven into images of Canadian landscapes.

Overall, Montopoli said he is very pleased with the design.

"We feel it captures the beauty of the women's game combined with our cultural mosaic in our country," he said. "It's a piece that intends to be aspirational (and) motivational."

FIFA's Women's World Cup will take place from June 6 to July 5, 2015 with matches being played in Ottawa, Edmonton, Montreal, Moncton and Vancouver.

The tournament is expected to draw out a record number of 1.5 million spectators and over half a billion television viewers during its 52 matches.

Insurance companies asked to stop seeking results of genetic tests

Privacy. Despite broad political consensus, there are currently no laws that prohibit genetic discrimination

Canada's privacy watchdog is urging insurance companies and others to stop asking for access to the results of existing genetic tests.

Privacy Commissioner Daniel Therrien says it is becoming more of a challenge to protect people's genetic privacy with recent advances in science and technology.

"We are calling on the industry to refrain from asking for existing test results to assess insurance risk until the industry can clearly show that these tests are necessary and effective in assessing risk," Therrien said in a statement Thursday.

There are now hundreds of genetic tests available to help spot genes known to increase a person's risk of developing certain medical conditions.

But some people may decline tests for fear a positive result may mean they could face discrimination from insurance companies or their employers.

There are currently no laws in Canada that specifically prohibit genetic discrimination, although there appears to be broad political consensus around the issue.

The most recent Conservative throne speech promised to stop employers and insurance companies from discriminating against Canadians on the basis of genetic testing.

Last year, the Liberal leader in the Senate introduced legislation that would stop insurance companies and others from discriminating against people who are genetically susceptible to some diseases.

Past Conservative and Liberal election platforms pledged to stop discriminatory life insurance practices, while the New Democrats once introduced a private member's bill in the House of Commons to ban "genetic characteristics" as grounds for discrimination under the Canadian Human Rights Act.

The full Journey to Churchill experience at the Assiniboine Park Zoo in Manitoba has reopened, after closing when wolves broke into the polar bear exhibit.

"We have a fence that subdivides the one exhibit, we have wolves on one side and the two female polar bears on the other side," explained Assiniboine Park Conservancy COO Don Peterkin. Israel escalates Gaza offensive; Jerusalem, Tel Aviv under fire

Danger. Both sides dig in their heels; Israel escalates air assaults and Gaza militants continue rocket fire; 85 dead this week

Israel dramatically escalated its aerial assault targeting hundreds of Hamas sites in the Gaza Strip Thursday as Palestinians reported the strikes also hit a home and a beachside cafe, raising the total number of people killed in this week's offensive to at least 85. Israel's missile defence system also once again intercepted rockets fired by Gaza militants at the country's two largest cities, Jerusalem and Tel Aviv.

The Israeli military said it had struck a total of some 500 targets throughout the day, focusing on underground tunnel networks and rocket launching sites. In all, the military said it has hit some 860 sites since the operation started Tuesday.

Gaza militants fired more than 140 rockets at major Israeli residential areas Thursday, Israel's military said. Rockets fired at southern Israel damaged homes, infrastructure and spread panic. Israelis rushed to bomb shelters as sirens wailed in major cities. About five million Israelis are in range of the Palestinian rocket attacks. No Israelis have been killed.

A rocket hit a car in the southern Israeli city of Ashdod Thursday night engulfing it in flames. Israel's emergency services said nobody was injured in the attack, reversing an earlier statement in which it said a man was hurt.

Even death can't tear this love for jazz apart

New York. Cemetery builds plots so jazz lovers can be buried near their favourite musicians

Some jazz fans are devoted to the very end.

At The Woodlawn Cemetery in the Bronx, so many jazz enthusiasts want to be buried near the graves of such greats as Miles Davis and Duke Ellington that the cemetery is developing new plots to meet the demand.

The cemetery is building about 2,275 new burial plots between the grave of Latin music star Celia Cruz and "Jazz Corner," the area where musicians Davis, Ellington, Lionel Hampton and Illinois Jacquet are buried.

"With the history of the Bronx and everybody that is planning ahead, we have a lot of requests to be close to Miles Davis and Celia Cruz," said cemetery executive director David Ison.

Pauline Smith, 74, bought a burial plot near Jazz Corner about three years ago. She is an avid jazz lover and throws regular parties where she hires jazz musicians to play at her home in New Rochelle.

"The music is in the earth and in the air and in the heavens," she said. "I love the idea that I could be continuing my love on the other side."

Earlier this year, the cemetery opened up 70 burial plots behind Davis' grave in Jazz Corner, separate from the new development, and almost all of them have already been sold.

The complex also includes a mausoleum finished in February with space for about 275 sets of remains and a starting price of $6,000 per plot. Four smaller buildings planned for the site do not have an estimated completion date.

The 400-acre cemetery, at about half the size of Central Park, is also the final resting place of such notables as journalist Joseph Pulitzer, women's rights pioneer Elizabeth Cady Stanton and composer Irving Berlin.

Gunman demanded to know estranged wife's whereabouts

Texas. Man dressed as FedEx driver barged into home, killing 4 children, parents

A gunman dressed as a delivery man forced his way into his sister-in-law's suburban Houston home where he held her children at gunpoint until their parents arrived. Then he opened fire, killing four of the children and the two adults, law enforcement officials said Thursday.

Ronald Lee Haskell, 33, has been charged with multiple counts of capital murder in the killings Wednesday evening, the Harris County Sheriff's Office said in a statement. He is also accused of critically wounding a 15-year-old girl in the shooting rampage.

When he arrived at the door, Haskell demanded to know where he could find his estranged wife, the statement said. After the children's parents, Katie, 33, and Stephen Stay, 39, arrived home, Haskell opened fire on the family. The children killed were two boys ages four and 14, plus two girls ages seven and nine, Harris County Sheriff's Deputy Thomas Gilliland said.

Five family members were dead when police arrived. Two were transported by helicopter to a Houston hospital, where one died and the other remains in critical condition, the statement said.

Documents introduced during a preliminary court hearing Thursday show the 15-year-old girl attempted to close the door to the home after telling

India. Plans to build colossal, costly statue causes public uproar

In a country grappling with poverty, sluggish growth and a daunting deficit, India's new budget has set aside $33 million US for a colossal iron-and-bronze statue almost twice the size of the Statue of Liberty.

The plans in Thursday's budget for a 182-metre-tall replica of Indian independence leader Vallabhbhai Patel caused an outcry, with many people saying the country has far more urgent priorities.

"How can they waste money on a statue like that?" asked Rohtash, a vegetable vendor in the Indian capital who goes by one name. "The government could have used that money to reduce the price of rice. That would have been some help for poor people like us."

It was the first budget of a new government elected on promises to revive stalled economic growth.

Others lamented how the budget earmarks more money for the Patel statue than for women's safety nationwide, which got $25 million US, or the education of young girls at 1 billion rupees or $16.5 million US.

The move was criticized strongly on social media, with one sarcastic Twitter user saying: "Truly #budget2014 has something for everyone, even Sardar Patel." The move was rated "most disliked" on the website of NDTV news channel, and the Times of India newspaper started a Twitter poll asking if the statue is a "wasteful expenditure."

The project was originally meant to be financed by the local government and donations of iron and cash from across the country. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thailand. Junta fires railway chief after furor over rape, killing of girl

The head of Thailand's state railway was sacked Thursday by the country's military government after a public furor over the rape and killing of a 13-year-old girl in her berth on an overnight train.

The junta, which took power in a May 22 coup, broadcast a decree over television ordering State Railway of Thailand governor Prapas Chongsa-nguan to leave his post in order to make railway operations more orderly. He had earlier declined to resign in response to calls for him to show responsibility.

Police arrested a railway worker for the rape and killing of the girl travelling Saturday night from the south to Bangkok. Police said he had confessed to the crime and tossing her body from the car. It was not found until Tuesday morning. The crime sparked a public outcry calling for capital punishment for rape. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Group calls for ban on two chemicals in consumer goods

Great Lakes. Canadian Environmental Law Association urges ban on triclosan and triclocarban, which are in everything from soap to yoga mats

Canada should ban two antibacterial chemicals used in many consumer products that are accumulating in the waters of the Great Lakes, a report issued Thursday said.

The report, from the Canadian Environmental Law Association, also suggested Canada, the United States and all provinces and states bordering the Great Lakes should prohibit use of the chemicals and assess proposed alternatives before they are used.

The two products are triclosan and triclocarban, which are used alone and together in products such as toothpaste, body washes, bar soap and clothing. The chemicals are even found in yoga mats.

Used for decades, the chemicals have been coming under increasing scrutiny in recent years.

In December, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration announced it was reconsidering the safety of antibacterial soaps and other antibacterial personal care products because of concerns the chemicals they contain may disrupt human hormones and contribute to the development of antibiotic resistance.

Then in May, Minnesota made headlines when it banned triclosan. The report called triclosan a chemical of high concern and triclocarban a chemical that should be replaced with safer alternatives.

Those rankings were based on an analysis the group conducted using a tool called the GreenScreen assessment. It measures a chemical's impact against 18 human health and environmental criteria, such as whether there is evidence they cause reproductive toxicity, endocrine activity, eye irritation or skin sensitivity. It also looks at whether the chemicals are flammable and whether they accumulate in the environment.

Lawyers for the billionaire creator of Beanie Babies say a federal judge didn't let him off too easily by giving him probation and no prison time for hiding at least $25 million from U.S. tax authorities in Swiss banks.

In a 57-page filing Thursday with the U.S. 7th Circuit Court of Appeals, Ty Warner denies the judge in Chicago sent a message that there's a different standard for the wealthy.

Samsung Electronics. Fresh claim of child labour at China supplier Samsung is facing a fresh accusation that one of its China suppliers hired children to meet production targets during a period of high demand from the South Korean electronics giant.

Samsung Electronics Co. said Thursday it is looking into the allegation by China Labor Watch that its supplier Shinyang Electronics in Dongguan hired children and student workers under the legal working age.

The New York-based labour watchdog said children were hired during a busy production period, worked for 11 hours a day without overtime pay and without social insurance. They usually left employment after three to six months when demand from Samsung declined, but without any severance pay.

The accusation conflicts with Samsung's recent report on conditions at suppliers. It said no child labour was found by an external audit last year of about 100 Chinese suppliers.

That audit found 59 suppliers that did not provide safety equipment to employees. It also said excessive working hours were commonplace.

China Labor Watch said in 2012 that Samsung was turning a blind eye to child labour at its suppliers in China where billions of Apple Inc. and Samsung smartphones are assembled.

What could be better than eating a big breakfast, donning your finest whites with red scarf, and joining the world's craziest as they run down a narrow, cobbled, 850-metre corridor after someone unleashes a herd of bulls? In addition to the many injuries sustained every year, several people have actually been gored ... to death. Ah, but for the ones who live, what a rush!

2 Bread basket. The NBA is in full free agency mode with several massive contracts waiting to be signed. Chris Bosh has been offered almost $90 million by the Rockets, the Knicks have a $129-million cheque on the table for Carmelo Anthony, and heaven only knows what will be thrown at LeBron James. So, the toughest decision really belongs to the league: a handful of players, or a medium-sized European country? Yeah, you know I'm right, but you also know they're going with the players.

3 Plane pizza. Severe weather forced a Denver-bound Frontier Airlines flight into an unscheduled landing that grounded them in Wyoming for two hours. As passengers grew restless, Capt. Gerhard Brandner called Domino's and footed the bill for 40 pizzas to be delivered right to the plane. That was all it took to make him a hero, as the morale of the entire plane turned around. Except, of course, for those seated near the lactose-intolerant. Bravo, anyway.

4 Miss-guidance. Air New Zealand attempted to entice passengers to oft-disregarded safety instructions by producing an in-flight video featuring bikini-clad models. Some patrons found the campaign distasteful, and it was dropped after thousands signed an online petition. And it wasn't just women complaining. Many of the

The class will be taught by Melissa Avdeeff, who has previously lectured on Justin Bieber and A Tribe Called Red, so you can expect some profound educational returns on those student bursaries. But it won't be an easy A, or at least I hope not, because I can already hear parents singing, "If you liked it then you shoulda got an A on it. Uh-oh, Uh-uh-oh."

Reel Guys

CROUSE AND
MARK BRESLIN

Dawn of the Planet of the Apes opens this weekend. CONTRIBUTED

Dawn of the Planet of the Apes. Sci-fi simian movie swings between wild action and thought provoking drama

Richard: Mark, to riff off of the old Superman tag line, "You will believe an ape can speak." The special effects are amazing, but beyond the pixel manipulation that brings Caesar and company to vivid life, there are remarkable performances that, for lack of a better phrase, humanize the apes. These aren't the erudite apes of the Roddy McDowell era, with vocabularies that would impress even Conrad Black, but simian characters that behave somewhere midway between pure instinct and higher intelligence. I went bananas for the apes. You?

Mark: The apes may have limited vocabularies but they're a lot more interesting than the humans in the picture. This is a very sophisticated blockbuster that deals with our queasy relationship to the animal world and also acts as a metaphor for our need for civilized diplomacy. The post-apocalyptic world of a verdant but decaying San Francisco is visually plausible, and there are plot points worthy of a Greek tragedy. But enough about that. The apes are rad, man!

RC: It sure is a different kind of blockbuster. It has all the elements of the usual summer fare — it's a sequel, things blow up and, if that wasn't enough, also features an ape — but it takes risks. About half of it is done in ape sign language (with subtitles) and it's not chock-a-block with action. Instead it takes time building characters and motivations so when the wild ape-on-human action begins it feels earned and it feels epic.

MB: Ape-on-human? What about the fabulous ape-on-ape action? When these apes go at each other, it's feral and primitive. WWE, take note! And the ape sign language forces them to act with their eyes, which reminded me of the power of old silent films. I didn't need a bunch of clunky dialogue to know what these gorillas were thinking.

RC: I agree. I think this is the kind of performance that could convince the Academy to consider "motion capture" acting for inclusion in the Oscar acting categories.

Beyond the performances though, is a thought-provoking movie about race, gun usage and xenophobia. It's masked in allegory and, well, a story about talking apes, but it touches on those hot button topics in an interesting way.

MB: What is missing from the movie is James Franco, who brought some lightness and offhand charm to the

Synopsis

Set 10 years after Rise of the Planet of the Apes saw Caesar (Andy Serkis) break free from a San Francisco primate sanctuary and start an ape uprising, the middle-aged chimpanzee is the leader of a large population of genetically evolved apes. Most of humankind was wiped out by a pandemic of ALZ-113—a "simian flu" virus that speeds up the rebuilding of brain cells in apes but is deadly to humans — but when a small band of humans scout a water source near the ape camp a monkey wrench is thrown into the fragile peace between homo sapiens and simians.

A film a dozen years in the making

Boyhood. Director Richard Linklater talks about pulling off a story with the same cast year after year

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Director Richard Linklater's new film, Boyhood, is a unique, 12-years-in-the-making experiment, shot in short bursts over a long span of time to follow one young man (Ellar Coltrane) as he develops. We were curious how he managed to pull that off.

With a movie like this, filmed in such a unique way, how did you decide when to end the story?

I always had it planned out, to end it when he goes off to college. I remember with that moment, the feeling like there was freedom over that hill. You know, leaving home, being out of high school. It's just different,

Boyhood follows one boy (Ellar Coltrane) as he develops over 12 years. CONTRIBUTED felt like you were an adult or something. I always had that being the little denouement, I guess. I knew that for years. I didn't know the exact dialogue, but I knew that was the note to hit.

It's impressive that you had so much of it planned out for so long.

Yeah, not the exact dialogue but every character trajectory. And then we had the luxury of being able to think about it for a year each year.

Were there any discoveries or surprises along the way that made it necessary to course-correct?

The thing was such a little incremental collaboration — a collaboration with incremental growth for the characters and the culture and everything, so there was never anything insurmountable or any huge curveballs that came our way. It was all kind of predictable. Like, "OK, everybody's a year older." I got to kind of work through all that. So it was kind of as planned.

He's not the most talkative protagonist.

I wanted it to mirror how life feels. When you're a little kid, your parents are doing all the talking. You go where they go, you're so beholden to them, but as you get older you gain more agency and suddenly it's your tastes that dictate. So that seemed to me developmentally somewhat accurate. And he's a pretty laid-back guy, actually.

When you cast Ellar as a kid, was there any concern about how he might grow up as far as his personality or his looks?

If he had become a significantly different guy? I knew that he would become himself and the film would go there, so if he had ended up a 200-pound football player, it would be a similar story about a guy who ... becomes a 200-pound football player. It would touch on a lot of the same things, probably, but in a different vessel.

Given how much the independent world has changed since you started, how do you think you'd go about making a debut film in 2014?

Oh gosh. I don't know, I think it's easier to make a film now. There are a lot more films made. I think it's harder to get them seen, it's harder to have any cultural impact or be seen much, so that's the challenge. I think a lot of it is the indie audience has gotten older, and I think young people aren't necessarily picking up the indies. The ubiquity maybe of the technology makes actually consuming films in a strange way less of a big deal for them. They just download them and whatever. It's a struggle to get them out there.

Ode to the guy who lived life out loud

Life Itself. Even in the face of death, Roger Ebert let filmmaker Steve James in to share his story

scene@metronews.ca

In the documentary Life Itself, an emotional Martin Scorsese explains how the late film critic Roger Ebert arranged a tribute for him at the 1982 Toronto International Film Festival that helped resurrect the director's career after a rough spell. The Chicago Sun-Times critic was close friends with Scorsese, as he had been with a host of directors whose films he reviewed over his iconic 46-year career.

Steve James, the filmmaker behind the 1994 Oscar-nominated documentary Hoop Dreams, was not one of them.

But that didn't prevent the documentarian — whose films were invariably praised by

Ebert — from adapting the critic's 2011 memoir Life Itself into the titular documentary, which has been met with critical acclaim since premiering at the Sundance Film Festival in January. "I don't think he wanted that kind of relationship with me and I didn't know it was possible," James tells Metro in an interview. "But for what it's worth, I do think it served the movie because I came into his life very much an outsider and I had no real baggage or friendship."

The two-hour documentary is a poignant portrait of the outspoken critic, who passed away in April 2013 after a decade-long battle with thyroid cancer.

Rather than a generic, talking head-strewn profile, Life Itself carefully reflects the scope of Ebert's interests and his mercurial nature. "He made it clear from the get-go that he expected I'd do an honest and multi-faceted portrait of him," says James.

"I think that was something he had prized in my other films — that they present people in a three-dimensional light — so he expected that to be the case here because that's the kind of film he'd want to see whether it was on him or not."

James' previous films such as The Interrupters, on a group of violence counselors in troubled Chicago neighbourhoods, and Hoop Dreams, about two young basketball players, had followed a colourful cast of characters. He says switching gears to focus on one, high-profile individual was a welcome change.

"The idea of doing a biography on someone who has this fascinating life was kind of exciting for me because I haven't done any films like that," he said. "And to do it on someone who was famous and beloved — these were all new territories for me. Having done as many films as I have over the years, you relish opportunities to tell different kinds of stories in different ways."

But while James had five years with the boys of Hoop Dreams, the director would only have four months of filming with Ebert before he passed away. Moreover, the critic was hospitalized for almost the entire period, leaving James to question how much of his condition to cover.

Ebert's cancer left the lower portion of his face disfigured due to multiple chin, throat and mouth surgeries, and he also suffered from a serious hip fracture. "Roger was struggling with recovery, and then setbacks, but to let me film a rehab sequence where he's really struggling, that was pretty brave of him," the director says. "He could have very easily said, 'I might get better. Don't film me in rehab,' and I would have totally understood, but he allowed us."

It was the kind of man he was, adds James, and for viewers unfamiliar with Ebert's reviews or television show with the late film critic Gene Siskel, the director assures Life Itself is about more than someone who spent his days scribbling in dark rooms. "The film is about an incredible life that was full of adventure and ups and downs, and it's a film about Roger's significance to culture and his importance," says James. "But I think it's also about a guy who — like [Ebert's wife] Chaz says — just lived his life out loud."

Roger Ebert and his wife Chaz, who says the late film critic "just lived his life out loud." CONTRIBUTED

You'll get your dragons when Martin is damn well ready!

Metro in Hollywood

Bad news for Game of Thrones fans who are getting impatient waiting for author George R.R. Martin to finish the hit book series. He really doesn't want to hear your questions about when the next book will be out, so stop asking about it, you punk kids. Actually, Martin didn't put it that nicely: "I find that question pretty offensive, frankly, when people start speculating about my death and my health," he tells Swiss newspaper Tages-Anzeiger. "So f— you to those people." But since you asked, Martin admits that, at 65 years old, he's in no hurry to crank out more material. You'll get your dire wolves and dragons when he's damn well ready. "I have been slowing down. I don't know if it's the fact that I'm getting older — I think it's partly that," he says. "But I also think it's partly that the series is so much more successful that there's demands that come with success." I feel like we're going in circles here, George. So ... when's the next book coming out? You're not getting any younger, you know.

Downey Jr. Jr.? RDJ and wife expecting baby girl

Here's a bit of good kid-related news for Robert Downey Jr. after his 20-year-old son, Indio, was arrested for cocaine possession last month: The Iron Man star announced via social media that he and wife Susan Downey are expecting another baby. He kept it pretty simple on Twitter with: "Yo. Susan.

Me. Baby. Girl. November. Scorpio?" But on Facebook he got a little more effusive, writing, "Um. I don't know if it's a 'man's world,' but I'm certain women run it. Susan and I are therefore delighted to announce we are expecting a baby. Girl. November." The couple also has a two-year-old son, Exton.

Zac and Michelle? Yeah, that's old news...

While the general public might have been a bit caught off guard by photos of Zac Efron and Michelle Rodriguez packing on the PDA in Sardinia this week, apparently intimate activities are nothing new for the pair, who've known each other for about two years and have a history of hooking up, according to E! News.

"Michelle is super-cool and laid-back and Zac has always been attracted to her because of that," a source says.

"She's one of those people that everyone likes. She just gets on with all kinds of people and doesn't take the fame thing too seriously."

Lobster rolls with a tarragon mayo twist

RICARDO COOKS
Chef Ricardo
Ricardo Magazine

When I'm making lobster, I always make more than enough to go around. Let's be honest: what's better than leftover lobster for lunch?

And although any seafood dish makes me happy, I have a soft spot for lobster rolls (with a bag of chips on the side).

They remind me of my first vacation on the East Coast with my wife.

Remoulade

1. In a bowl, combine all the ingredients.
2. Season with salt and pepper.
3. Refrigerate for at least 30 minutes.

Note

- For a more classic remoulade, substitute the tarragon with flat-leaf parsley.
- And to serve as a salad, divide the remoulade on your choice of lettuce and garnish with pieces of lobster.

Lobster Rolls

1. Fill the hot dog buns with remoulade and lobster pieces.

Total preparation time:
20 minutes

Total cooking time:
30 minutes

- 1 tsp (5 ml) capers, drained and finely chopped
- 1 tsp (5 ml) Dijon mustard
- 1/2 clove garlic, finely chopped

Summer cocktails

Ungava gin a sunny tonic

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell

Though vodka may be king of the white spirits, modern mixologists have grown bored with its taste profile or, actually, its lack of one. Just look to the shelves. They're populated with vodkas flavoured with everything from root beer to, I kid you not, birthday cake.

That's paved the way for the return of gin. Considered very old school (it was invented back in the mid-17th century), gin's combination of juniper berries and botanicals gives it personality plus, which makes it perfect over ice or as the base of classic, straightforward pitcher-worthy drinks like gin and tonic and the martini.

While England may be famous for its production, artisan gin makers the world over are turning heads and tantalizing taste buds. Named for the Ungava Peninsula in northern Quebec, Ungava Canadian Premium Gin ($34.90 – $37.99) is a robust botanical stew that includes the likes of Nordic juniper, cloud-berry and Labrador tea.

It's an aromatic powerhouse with a unique yellow hue that will add a little Quebecois sunshine to your summer-time cocktails.

Ex-Esks eager to face old team for Ottawa

Settling scores.

Redblacks play Edmonton with eight former Eskimos on roster

The Ottawa Redblacks will take a passel of ex-Eskimos and a collective chip on their shoulder when they go for their first CFL franchise win Friday.

"I'm not going to give you the politically correct answer," Ottawa linebacker T.J. Hill told reporters Thursday after the 0-1 Redblacks arrived at Commonwealth Stadium. "No disrespect to the Blue Bombers but we definitely feel like we let that one slip away."

"We've got to finish, and there's no excuses."

The Redblacks jumped out to a 21-7 lead in their opener in Winnipeg last week, but multiple penalties and big mistakes on special teams allowed the Blue Bombers to stage a 36-28 comeback win.

Hill is one of eight former Edmonton Eskimos on the Ottawa roster for Friday's game.

Hill was a veteran and a longtime locker-room leader for the Eskimos, but was let go in the off-season as the team remodelled its defence under new head coach Chris Jones.

Hill said he doesn't feel any added incentive to win on his former home turf against his old mates.

"I'm always fired up to just have the opportunity to play,"

he said.

Not so for fellow Redblack and former Eskimos receiver Marcus Henry, who was picked up by Ottawa after failing a training camp medical in Edmonton.

Henry was asked if he was OK with how things ended for him in Edmonton.

"At first, no, I wasn't OK with it. It was (a) surprise to me, too," he said. "But coming through the locker-room after I got released, the guys picking me up and stuff, I got over it pretty quick."

But it still stings a bit, he added.

"Whenever you get released by a team and you go back and play them, there's always a chip on your shoulder," he said.

The ex-Eskimos are also in the Ottawa coaching ranks, including head coach Rick Campbell, a former longtime assistant with Edmonton. He said they need to reduce the penalties and protect the football from an Edmonton defence that has already intercepted seven balls en route to a 2-0 record.

"We need to take care of the football," said Campbell.

Week 3 pick

Redblacks at Eskimos, 10 p.m. Friday (TSN)

Edmonton has some significant injuries to deal with. Defensive lineman Don Oramasionwu suffered a season-ending knee injury in last week's 28-24 win over Hamilton. Offensive lineman Thaddeus Coleman is out indefinitely with a dislocated elbow. The good news is receiver Fred Stamps resumed practising Wednesday. Stamps has seven catches for 114 yards and a TD after two games. Quarterback Mike Reilly has completed 68 per cent of his passes for 482 yards with four TDs against two interceptions.

Ottawa's Henry Burris finished 17 of 30 passing for 241 yards and two TDs in Ottawa's debut in Winnipeg last week.

Pick: Edmonton.

Hunger games: Raps want only winners

NBA free agency.

Re-signing of Lowry solidifies hard-nosed nucleus of GM Ujiri's Toronto upstarts

There is a trait Masai Ujiri seeks out more than any other in the players he covets for the Raptors, something far more important to him than dribbling or shooting, passing or defence.

He will open the vault to find those who possess it, he will take risks because he sees it dormant in some players, ready to be developed over time.

It is impossible to define but it's led him to make subtle changes and key additions to a 2014-15 roster now almost fully formed.

"I don't like guys who cut corners or try to go the easy route," the president and general manager said Thursday while officially announcing the return of point guard Kyle Lowry and a couple of other additions to the team.

"These guys work hard ... and you know what?"

"I don't pay players, I don't pay stats, I try to pay winners. And that's what you want to do. It's not like they've done it for many years but it's a great start for us."

Ujiri's work is all but done with Thursday's official announcements that Lowry is back on a four-year, $48-million deal, joined by backup point guard Greivis Vasquez and one-time Raptor James Johnson at small forward.

There may be room for one more transaction but the majority of the work is done.

The tweaking of the roster hasn't meant huge substantial changes but the subtle ones may be good enough.

Lowry said he had an offer from the Houston Rockets, accompanied by phone calls from Dwight Howard and Chandler Parsons, and he had contact with the Miami Heat during the free-agent negotiation process.

But the chance to improve with a young roster, and to lead it, was more than he could turn down. It speaks to where the Raptors are as a franchise — growing, not there yet but promising — that the chance to lead a group was more enticing to Lowry than the chance to join a legitimate contender.

"I knew the money was going to come, the years were going to come," he said of the deal that makes him the highest-paid player on the roster. "I wanted to be in a place I could win and grow."

"This organization, from top to bottom, is an unbelievable first-class organization and I want to be a part of it and do something special."

Appeal rejected. FIFA upholds suspension against Uruguay's Suarez

FIFA has rejected Luis Suarez's appeal against his lengthy ban for biting an opponent in a World Cup match.

Football's international governing body on Thursday said its appeals committee rejected the appeal by Suarez and the Uruguay football federation in its entirety. Suarez can still appeal to the Court of Arbitration for Sport.

The Liverpool star was banned for nine competitive international matches, four months from all football and fined 100,000 Swiss francs ($112,000) for biting the shoulder of Giorgio Chiellini during Uruguay's 1-0 win over Italy in a group-stage game in Brazil.

It is the third time Suarez has been banned for biting an opponent, after similar incidents at both Ajax in the Dutch league and Liverpool in the English Premier League.

The incident was missed by match officials, and FIFA's disciplinary committee studied video evidence before charging the Uruguay forward.

The ruling to uphold the sanctions was expected, as FIFA's appeals panel seldom changes disciplinary verdicts.

Packers post record revenue again in 2014

The Green Bay Packers had another year of record revenues, yet income fell after making some high-priced player moves.

The NFL's only publicly owned team said Thursday that revenue rose five per cent from 2013 to $324 million.

Total expenses increased nearly 18 per cent to $298 million. The Packers still drew a net income of $25 million, but that was down 41 per cent from last year.

Michael Phelps has never been the patient type.

He wants to go faster — right now.

The winningest athlete in Olympic history figured he would be putting up better times by this stage of his comeback.

"That's the hard part for him," his longtime coach, Bob Bowman, said Thursday.

Phelps will get a final tune-up before the two biggest events of the year when he competes in a special meet at the University of Georgia, going against Ryan Lochte and several of the world's top swimmers.

Beginning Friday, Phelps will take part in three events over three days, another important step in showing how fit he is since coming out of retirement.

In less than a month, he'll be competing in the national championships in Irvine, Calif., followed two weeks later by the Pan Pacific Championships in Australia.

"It helps Michael a lot to race," Bowman said. "That's what he really loves to do. If he's just training, it gets a little old."

Phelps is scheduled to compete Friday morning in the preliminaries of the 100-metre butterfly.
